

ABSTRACT

An improved broadhead arrowhead is disclosed including spiral-shaped, curving or twisting, blades of increasing width along a leading edge thereof, and an insert including a bearing element which allows for broadhead rotation independent of the arrow shaft about the longitudinal axis of the arrow shaft during flight. The curved blades and bearing element of the present invention allow the broadhead to continue rotating after contacting the target.